One useful result

Explain your preferences, ask clear questions and record what was agreed. Work through one lesson at a time, then use the three printable worksheets on a real, low-stakes situation.

Your route through this mini book

1. Describe the result you want

2. Ask about the actual service

3. Confirm boundaries before work begins

4. Keep a useful after-visit note

Read the lesson, compare the worked example and complete the action. Pages 7-9 are writing sheets; page 10 helps you review the result. The editable Markdown companion contains the same prompts for reuse in a notes app.

A personal communication and organisation workbook only. It gives no treatment, allergy-testing or medical advice. Follow appropriate professional and manufacturer guidance.

Original educational content and vector artwork. Examples are fictional. Personal and household printing is permitted. Redistribution, resale and public uploading of the paid files are not permitted. © 2026 SanjAI Matta.

Describe the result you want

Prepare a short description of the look or maintenance result you want, using words you understand. A reference image can help, but your hair, preferences and daily routine may differ from the image. Name what you like about it rather than requesting an exact copy without discussion. This workbook helps communication; it does not recommend a treatment, diagnose a condition or tell a professional which technique to use.

Worked example

“I like the softer outline in this picture, but I want enough length to tie my hair back” communicates two priorities. “Make me look exactly like this” leaves practical constraints unexplored.

Try it now

Choose a fictional visit. Write the desired result, one feature you like in a reference and one thing you want to preserve.
